

Catastrophe solutions

Catastrophes are inherently unpredictable. We rarely know where one might strike or have the ability to predict its severity. Even when we have advance warning and time to prepare, the effects can be devastating. When disasters occur, our adjusters can help businesses manage losses and guide them through the claims process.

Sedgwick's team has a long history of providing reliable, quality service when catastrophes strike. Our large staff of highly-qualified adjusters has the knowledge and experience to handle all types of losses including:

- Agriculture
- Boiler and machinery
- Builder's risk
- Business interruption
- Cargo
- Commercial property
- Energy
- General liability
- Heavy equipment
- Homeowners
- Inland marine
- Marine survey

Sedgwick has specific procedures and protocols in place to handle all types of catastrophes, whether we have advance warning or not. Our commitment to clients includes:

- Immediate loss assignment based on type and location
- Use of general adjuster or above for large, complex losses
- Closely monitoring the number of losses per adjuster to comply with client expectations and provide efficient, high-quality service
- Weekly diary reports to ensure first reports are completed within the required period
- Assessment of each catastrophe adjuster after an event, with additional training provided where needed
- Closing files quickly to reduce loss exposure
