

Builder's risk claims solutions

The Sedgwick team provides flexible, high-quality builder's risk claims solutions designed to meet the needs of the Canadian marketplace.

Construction projects are complex with unique risk exposures. A wide range of issues need to be taken into consideration, such as the type of project, source of the damage (fire, flood, wind, earthquake, etc.), duration of the project, insured values, type of construction, as well as the machinery and equipment used.

The Sedgwick builder's risk team has extensive experience handling construction-related claims for clients. They understand all types of exposures, and review coverage on hard costs such as materials and equipment, and soft costs like project delays and income losses.

We work with all parties involved, including the owner, architect, general contractor, subcontractors and consultants, to determine any necessary testing or engineering protocols, and ultimately determine and agree upon the scope of the damage.
