MARINE & CARGO

By its nature, the marine industry is challenging: vessels, crew and cargo are exposed to a wide range of risks in port and on the high seas. Furthermore, many parties in multiple locations are involved in the supply chain, often with conflicting interests; the shipping and storage of goods is subject to complicated national and international rules and regulations all of which makes the marine and cargo industry one of a kind.

Cargo

Our people in the Marine team specialise in any cargo-related: perishables, reefer and frozen, bulk cargo, industrial equipment, fraud or salvage.

Marine liability

We work in liability losses across the full range of risks in the marine business. Among our clients we have Insures of terminals, shipyards, P&I clubs or any other marine related operator.

Hul and Machinery

Our dedicated experts bring their seafaring, engineering and shipbuilding experience to bear on behalf of insures, owners and operators, providing surveys on all types of vessels, floating structures and landbased equipment.

Project cargo

We carry out project cargo surveys during loading and unloading operations at ports. We work with heavy and oversized lift and complex machinery, ensuring the reliability of shipments anywhere in the world.

Marine & cargo TPA

We provide integrated claims management solutions; from the FNOL to final settlement agreement, including recoveries and loss adjusting as needed.

International presence

Sedgwick Marine offers a global coverage with offices in 65 countries and 180 specialized marine people. We have 24/7 people available to attend any emergency anywhere in the world.

Single point of contact

We offer a sole interlocution with Insurers, brokers and policyholders in Spain or Portugal, regardless the country where the loss happened, always close to the client. We know our clients need, combining global solutions and local expertise.

“At Sedgwick Iberia we are client focus, offering ad-hoc solutions for each case. We work with all types of policyholders: national and international, from manufacturers and shippers to port terminals and freight forwarders. When dealing with a marine loss, regardless of where or when it happens, the response has to be fast and specialized”.
