

Consumer solutions

The question facing countless corporations today – how do we build relationships that will help us generate revenue, create brand loyalty and keep us connected to our customers? Sedgwick's consumer solutions team can help.

Customer care initiatives are often hindered by operational and staffing issues, pressure from competition, budget constraints and a myriad of other factors. Many of the world's leading corporations have solved their customer care dilemmas through programs that provide product enhancements and services that result in meaningful customer connections.

But finding the right partner company to build customer care programs and services with isn't always easy. Consider Sedgwick as the gateway for all your organization's consumer enhancement offerings.

Whether you need a customer loyalty program or extended warranty services, Sedgwick can help. We marry technology and best practices to meet the loyalty and brand-building needs of our customers.

Partnering with clients

Sedgwick is the nation's largest independent administrator of claims services, productivity management solutions and consumer-facing affinity and loyalty programs. As a provider of custom-built, value-added and cost-effective program management services, Sedgwick is unsurpassed. We partner with our clients to create end-to-end program administrative services to help develop brand-building products that:

- Generate incremental revenue
- Create powerful reward and loyalty programs
- Ensure brand affinity
- Maximize the lifetime value of your customers

Think of Sedgwick's consumer solutions as the glue that creates a long-lasting bond between you and your customers. We can take that first call from your customers and become the gateway for all your customer service-related objectives and needs.

A commitment to customization

We help clients achieve their goals through customer-facing telephonic and web interfaces, front-line customer service, extended warranty services, the industry's broadest range of protection products, and several other programs and services that help you better connect with your customers.

We can offer these services as private label or under the Sedgwick name. At the core of our business is a commitment to customization in all facets of our products and services.
