

Vaccination tracking

When supporting the health and safety of your workforce, being able to track the status of vaccination records within the population can make a significant difference. Sedgwick provides a simple, secure intake platform to give employers a bird's-eye view of vaccination programs and progress.

Prioritize care and keep your workplace running

Sedgwick's quick-implementation, standard vaccination tracking program includes an intuitive question framework that gives employers the opportunity to collect basic details about any type of vaccination – for COVID-19, flu, hepatitis or others. The intake questionnaire can be customized for each employer's objectives, goals and preferences.

By capturing and tracking vaccination responses, you will have a view into the collective status of your population – who has received a vaccine, who hasn't, who is in need of a required second dose, who is not planning to be vaccinated, whose symptoms may be attributed to a vaccine instead of a virus – as well as an opportunity to care for your employees on an individual level and help them through any concerns.

A simple and seamless process

For employees, the process is simple and reassuring. Individuals are guided through a short vaccine check questionnaire process and encouraged to share the information requested by their employer. With COVID-19 vaccinations, they also have the ability to upload a photo of their vaccination passport in a secure environment, with the privacy of their information assured thanks to Sedgwick's industry-leading security standards.

Based on Sedgwick's award-winning global intake platform, our vaccine tracking program has been built within an intuitive, easy-to-use, safe cloud-based system. We are committed to protecting information at the client and individual level while ensuring authenticated access to data. Whether or not you are a current Sedgwick client, the implementation of this process is seamless and can be rapidly enabled.

Protecting what matters most

We understand the value you place on the health, safety and productivity of your employees and customers. At Sedgwick, caring counts. We are well positioned to assist as you continue your COVID-19 response and address future public health challenges. Our vaccine tracking system can prompt communication to help notify employees of next steps and to offer support.

Are you looking for customization? We can work with you through implementation to ensure the tracking questionnaire is an extension of your culture and voice. Add or adapt specific questions connected to your workplace and preferences. Are you introducing an incentive program to encourage employees to receive a vaccination? We can tailor the questionnaire to validate participation checkpoints.
