

Higher education claims solutions

Colleges and universities present unique claims handling challenges, requiring specialized adjusting and litigation management skills. Activities at these institutions can include running construction sites, performing dangerous scientific experiments, operating large residential facilities and hosting public gatherings. They often have a wider array of claim types and risk concerns than many businesses. Sedgwick’s experienced claims team can help.

Our higher education team focuses on the specific claims management needs of colleges, universities, group captives and pools. We are able to:

- Structure programs to incorporate each client’s claims philosophy and financial objectives
- Continually monitor and tailor our services as our clients’ needs evolve
- Maintain consistent quality in everything we do

Dedicated claim units

Our designated account managers, administrators and adjusters work closely with our clients and provide a full range of claims management services. This approach allows our colleagues to become familiar with each client’s employees, operations and unique characteristics.

Field adjusting and investigation

Our account managers are able to draw from the largest roster of highly experienced claims adjusters in the country to conduct necessary on-site inspections and investigations. Our expert team manages all types of claims – small or large, simple or complex.

Litigation management

Sedgwick’s strategy emphasizes early recognition of issues and objectives, partnerships with counsel and clients, and cost-effective resolutions. We strategically design plans and case budgets to achieve results consistent with each client’s business interests.

Our claims adjusters provide in-depth expertise in the following exposures:

- First-party property
- Third-party property
- General liability
- Bodily injury
- Auto liability and property damage
- Subrogation
- Litigation management
- Civil rights litigation
- Theft/crime
- Employment practices liability
